Art Unit: 1761

The finality of the last Office action is withdrawn. Rejections under nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting have been added.

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Art Unit: 1761

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-29 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-3 of U.S. Patent No. 6,399,142.

Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the claims of U.S. Patent No. 6,399,142 fully encompass the claims of the instant invention.

Claims 1-29 are provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over the claims of copending Application Nos.10/443935 and 10/981335. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the claims of copending Application Nos.10/443935 and 10/981335 fully encompass the claims of the instant invention.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over James, Teeuwen et al, Thon, and Birch et al in view of Lorenzo et al (EP 0787745).

James discloses a liquid food product comprising inulin and a sweetener (see entire patent, especially column 5, lines 50-53).

Teeuwen et al disclose the combination of inulin and a sweetener as a fat and sugar replacement (see cited abstract).

Thon discloses the use of inulin as a sugar replacer (see cited abstract).

Birch et al disclose mixtures of inulin, sorbitol, and mannitol (see abstract).

The claims differ as to the use of a specific inulin fraction and the amounts employed.

Laurenzo et al disclose the preparation of inulin fractions having different molecular weights (see entire patent).

The amounts employed are seen to be no more than a matter of choice and well-within the skill of the art. At most the amounts selected are no more than optimization, see In re Boesch 205 USPQ 215.

It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to use the inulin fractions of Laurenzo et al in that of James, Teeuwen et al, Thon, and Birch et al because the use of inulin in the production of food products is conventional in the art.

In the absence of a showing to the contrary, the choice of sweetener is seen as no more than a matter of choice and well-within the skill of the art. Polyols, monosaccharides, and disaccharides are notoriously well-known in the food art and Applicant is using these components for no more than their art-recognized function.
